Colorado Police Canine Association

CPCA Members

- Members include K9 handlers and trainers from across the state to include:
 - Grand Junction and Rifle Police Departments
 - Douglas, Jefferson and Adam's County Sheriff's Office
 - Aurora and Denver Police Departments
 - Fort Collins and Broomfield Police Departments
- Annual Elections are held for board member positions to guarantee growth and accurate representation of our membership and their needs.

CPCA Membership Benefits

Community: CPCA members automatically have an abundance of local resources and professional contacts in the industry to assist in the development of our K-9 teams.

Support: We know that the career of a K-9 is multi-faceted. We offer annual complimentary training opportunities, and resources upon your partner's retirement.

Standards: Be a part of the team developing the standards for the state and ultimately the nation in not only training but also certifications.

Accreditation

While there is an abundance of certifications available in the state, and in the nationwide, Colorado Police Canine Association's K-9 Certification is the only one recognized and accredited by Colorado P.O.S.T.

Standardization

Our standards are in place in training programs across Colorado, Montana, and Wyoming. They work to ensure that all dogs in police service are able to work on the level required to maintain safety for themselves, their working partners, and their communities.

Certification

Our certifications were designed to be realistic and to set a minimum level of acceptable performance for K-9 teams in the state. Our standards have been approved by the state Chiefs of Police and Sheriffs associations. To date we have provided hundreds of certifications for K-9 teams in the state and have continued to grow as an organization.
